WINTER NEWSLETTER 2023

Letter from the Vice President

Dear Friends,

We hope this letter finds you well. The heating season is under way. We have seen some cold weather through November. We will continue to see how the forecast shapes out but for now, we are expecting a relatively "normal" winter in relation to the last handful of winters we have experienced.

If you have not done so, make sure to get your fuel assistance applications in. Qualifying individuals can earn significant funds to help with their heating expenses for the winter. Applications can be filled out online for most participating vendors. Feel free to call if you have any questions. We cannot apply for you; however, we can help you with where to go and how to get the process started.

Touching quickly on price because that is often a question we get asked; long story short, we do not know what the price will do. Our hope, as always, is the price will go down and continue to be an economically manageable fuel source for our customers. Economic outlook points to demand concerns for 2024 which, in theory and historically, tends to cause a downward trend in prices. Several factors can affect prices, including geopolitical tension, OPEC+ agreements, production capacity, and weather to name a few. As mentioned, we do not know what the price will do but we commit to do our best to maintain competitive prices and service programs.

In closing, be sure to keep an eye on your fuel tanks. If you're around a 1/4, give us a call. We'll be there before you run out. If you are an automatic delivery customer and something significant has changed with your heating demand, please let us know. Common circumstances of significant heat demand reduction or increase might be kids moving out, an elderly family member moving in or utilization of an alternative heat source.

Lastly, remember to refer your friends for discounts on future deliveries. If you stop by the office to pay your bill or order oil, make sure to grab a magnet or notepad. We appreciate your business. Have a great Holiday Season.

Sincerely,

Tim Reeves

What to Do If Your Home Loses Heat

If you do experience heat loss this winter, don't panic! See if you can correct the issue quickly and safely with this checklist:

NO-HEAT CHECKLIST FOR HOMEOWNERS

Fuel Tank: Check the gauge to see if you need a heating oil refill, and if you do, give us a call.

Thermostat: Make sure your setting is on HEAT, and the cooling function is not on instead.

Switches: Check that all furnace and emergency switches are on.

Reset Button: Press the RESET button on your furnace—ONCE ONLY.

IF YOU'VE PERFORMED ALL THE ABOVE STEPS AND STILL DON'T HAVE HEAT, CALL YOUR LOCAL ENERGY EXPERTS AT SHERMAN OIL RIGHT AWAY FOR ASSISTANCE.
